Bernice Harris

This story introduces you to our member Bernice Harris and how she followed in the footsteps of her mum and auntie.

"I joined the NHS in 1972 but My mum trained as a nurse at St Giles in Camberwell and she was there a long time. She met my dad at a hospital dance in Greenwich. My aunt was also in the NHS - she worked as a receptionist.
"I worked in the NHS for 40 years as a pharmacy technician. I took some time off to have my children, but I worked at hospitals across London and I retired in 2018 but I stayed on the bank for a while afterwards.

My whole family has worked in the NHS and I'm very proud of that."
